

2024 Jacobs Teen Innovation Challenge

Challenge Description

The Jacobs Institute for Innovation in Education at the University of San Diego is calling for middle- and high-school educators from around the world to join us in our effort to make a local and global impact. In the 2024 Jacobs Teen Innovation Challenge, educators and teenagers will develop an innovator's mindset and the skills to create solutions to local and global problems.

There is no cost to participate and ongoing support is provided to educators through a series of webinars.

Eligibility

- A middle- or high-school educator must sign up and coordinate the event with student teams.
- Every student must be in middle or high school and 13 years or older.
- Educators and students must use a Google Account.
- We strongly encourage diversity of race and gender in student teams.

Scan To Learn More

"Authentic learning at its best."

-Stephanie Oliver, Immaculata HS
Ottawa Catholic School Board

For Questions & Comments:

Bianca Alvarado
balvarado@sandiego.edu

Learn more at pactful.org/jtic24